Short-term transitional case management is a focused and time-limited approach to providing support and services to clients. It involves assessing the client's immediate needs, developing a plan to address those needs, and coordinating services to ensure the client receives appropriate care. The goal is to stabilize the client and provide them with the necessary resources and support to manage their situation effectively. This type of case management is often used in situations where clients require immediate assistance but do not need long-term, ongoing support.

Responsibilities and Duties:

- Establish a therapeutic relationship which is client-centered and based on a partnership. •
- Help individuals with severe and persistent mental illness and/or addiction to achieve their highest level of functionality possible in the least restrictive setting.
- Provide interventions that coordinate client services in a fragmented addiction and mental health system.
- Maintain a constant and ongoing support for clients even when their needs and use of services change.
- Work with the client to develop a strategy/plan to reduce the client's risk of experiencing a mental health crisis, including what actions by who and when, if client does experience a crisis/challenge in their recovery process.
- Maintain accurate and up-to-date client files as per client management software so that the information is current for anyone needing to access information on the client.
- Work with client to increase personal skills both internal and external to assist in symptom management and facilitate recovery process.
- Work collaboratively with community partners.
